Variance Procedures

Variance applications are heard and decided at a regularly-scheduled public hearing by the five-member City of Atlanta Board of Zoning Adjustment ("BZA"). The Bureau of Planning serves as staff to the BZA. Approximately one week after each closing date, a planner is assigned to review your application. All inquiries regarding your application should be directed to this office at (404) 330-6145. The rules of the BZA prevent BZA members from discussing the merits of any case except during the public hearing for that case.

Schedule. There are two closing dates and two public hearings per month. The schedule allows time for neighborhood and NPU meetings to occur throughout the City prior to each public hearing. The schedule of closing and public hearing dates is attached (Page 9).

Neighborhood and NPU Recommendations. The City is divided into 24 Neighborhood Planning Units (NPU's), each of which has a volunteer citizen advisory committee that makes a recommendation to the BZA on variances. When you file your application, you will be notified of the NPU contact person and that you must schedule a meeting with that NPU in order to explain what you wish to do. You may be requested to attend additional neighborhood meetings; inquire about the time and place of those meetings. The applicant is expected to contact the NPU as soon as possible after the application is filed. The Bureau of Planning will send a copy of your application to the appropriate NPU during the week after the closing date for your application.

Public Notice. When you file your application, it will be scheduled for a public hearing. The Bureau of Planning will initiate posting of public notice ("an advertisement", "a legal ad") for this public hearing so that the public is informed at least 15 days before the date of the public hearing:

- by sending written notice of your application to all property owners whose property is within 300 feet of the subject property, and
- by causing public notice to be placed in the newspaper.

You are responsible for obtaining a public notice sign when you file your application with the Bureau of Planning, and for posting it in a visible location on your property, at least 15 days prior to your public hearing. Failure to properly post the sign will make it necessary for the BZA to defer your case to another public hearing. The BZA may defer the case to a hearing that has been scheduled 30 or more days after the original hearing.

Refunds on Withdrawn Cases. Requests for withdrawal received 18 days prior to the public hearing will enable a refund of the application fee.

Staff Recommendation. Bureau of Planning staff reviews and makes written recommendations to the BZA on each variance application. You may contact your assigned planner at (404) 330-6145 on the day of the public hearing if you wish to know staff's recommendation.

JUSTIFICATION FOR VARIANCE APPLICATION FOR
1598 WEST SUSSEX ROAD, ATLANTA, GEORGIA, 30306

Robert Soens, on behalf of Sam and Pia Jones, seeks a variance from zoning regulations to allow for an existing detached garage to be converted into a conditioned accessory structure (Guest House). Except for replacing the garage doors with French doors, addition of a fireplace and chimney, and adding two new windows, all work will be on the interior of the existing structure. The footprint, size and shape of the structure will primarily remain unchanged.

The current main house has only three bedrooms. Both Sam and Pia have extended families that visit occasionally. The Jones' are preparing for their growing family with an impending expansion of their main house to allow for the addition of one more bedroom and a children's playroom. A variance is not required for this expansion.

In an attempt to minimize the expansion of the main house, utilizing the existing garage for accommodating guests would be beneficial in allowing for the needed space of the family while minimizing the impact to the property, keeping the massing of the house to a minimum and minimizing the visual impact to the neighbors.

1) There are extraordinary and exceptional conditions pertaining to the particular piece of property in question because of its size, shape or topography;

The extremely steep uphill slope of this lot from the street to the rear property line creates an extraordinary and exceptional condition, forcing all building to the very rear portion of the property. The house sits toward the very rear of the lot, and a pool and pool deck occupy the entire rear yard.

Therefore, although the floor area ratio and allowable lot coverage of the existing house and grounds are well below the 50% allowable, the owners can't easily add to the footprint of their house either to the front or to the rear. As a result, the proposed future expansion will be predominantly to the second story.

However, to accommodate visiting family, they will need more space than is reasonable to add to their main house without negatively impacting its historic, formal architectural style and scale. Instead, they seek a variance to convert an existing detached garage that sits behind the main house into a Guest House, which would serve as a guest room for visiting relatives.

2) The application of the zoning ordinance of the City of Atlanta to this Particular piece of property would create an unnecessary hardship;

Because this house sits at the top of a steep hill, forcing the structures to be concentrated to one area of the property, the application of the zoning ordinance would cause unnecessary hardship on the owner by forcing the homeowner to put all additional living space in the main house, creating a much larger house of disproportionate mass and scale, negatively affecting the appearance of an architecturally significant structure. This negative effect on the existing house would have a corresponding negative effect on the neighborhood, especially the next door neighbor to the right, as this would force a much larger structure directly to the rear and side of their house.

Converting the existing garage into the Guest House solves all these problems.

3) Such conditions are peculiar to the particular piece of property involved;

This property is peculiar and unique in the extreme slope of the front of the property, which forces all development to the small rear portion of the property significantly restricting the ability to build because of engineering and building constraints.

It is significant and peculiar to this property that the existing garage lends itself to a reasonable and attractive solution for the property owner and neighbors.

4) Relief, if granted, would not cause substantial detriment to the public good or impair the purpose and intent of the zoning ordinance of the City of Atlanta.

The accessory structure is existing and would not be significantly changed on the exterior.

Allowing the use of the existing garage to be converted to conditioned space does not cause detriment to the public good and actually benefits the neighbors and neighborhood by minimizing the visual impact of the expansion of the main house by utilizing already existing space on the rear of the property rather than forcing the home owner to add this space to the main house itself.

Because of the peculiar character of this piece of property and the significant hardship the application of this zoning ordinance would create for the property owner, relief, if granted, would not impair the purpose or the intent of the zoning ordinance.
